To Whom It May Concern,

This letter is intended to serve as an employment reference for Mr. Brady Rogers.

My company, Corona Insights, engages in a variety of market research and social research. For a specific project in 2023, we retained Brady's services to help us conduct field research. The work involved traveling to different locations around the Minneapolis metro area and gathering data by observing and recording selected public behaviors related to traffic safety.

The work was conducted under a state/federal contract, and thus followed rigorous research protocols. Additionally, the work required Brady to operate very independently while also regularly communicating his progress with the project manager. He received multiple assignments and was expected to complete them on his own initiative.

His work on the project was exceptional. He practiced great communications with the project manager, great initiative to complete his assigned tasks, and great attention to detail. As the project manager, I was very pleased with his work.

The position was temporary due to the nature of the project, and his duties ended when the required data was collected. However, I would not hesitate to hire him again for future needs.

Feel free to contact me if you have questions or would like additional information. My phone number is 720-838-3705 and my email address is kevin@coronainsights.com.
